Knights of Columbus Emblem

The emblem of our order dates back to the second Supreme Council meeting on May 12, 1883, when it was designed by James T. Mullen, who was then Supreme Knight.

Symbols

There is a shield mounted on the Formee Cross. The shield is associated with a Medieval Knight. The Formee Cross is a traditional Medieval Cross of Christ, through which all graces of redemption were procured for mankind. This represents the Catholic Spirit of the Order.

Mounted on the shield are three objects: a fasces is a bundle of rods, standing vertical, bound together around an ax with a projecting blade. The fasces was an emblem of ancient Roman authority. This is symbolic of authority which must exist in any tightly bound organization.

Crossed behind the fasces, is an anchor and a sword. The anchor is the mariner's symbol of Columbus, the patron of the Order. The sword was the weapon of the Knight when engaged upon an errand of mercy.

Thus, the shield expresses Catholic Knighthood in an organized merciful action, and with the letters, K of C, it proclaims this specific form of activity.

Colors

Red is the Symbol of Faith, of a belief in Christ, in the Redemption and in the knowledge and love of Jesus Christ.

White is the color of the Eucharistic Host, a pledge of God's Eucharistic presence among men and of the infinite love God has for each individual. White is the symbol of Christ-like Charity.

Blue is the color of Our Lady's Mantle in which she wrapped her beloved Son, through whom came salvation to a sinful world. Blue is the symbol of Hope.
